Facts for Prospective Trail Riders

Who are the Trail Riders?

The Trail Riders of the Canadian Rockies comprise an independent society of alpine enthusiasts of both sexes who each year hold two or more camps—usually of five days' duration—in the vicinity of Banff or Lake Louise.

Membership in the order is open to all, regardless of race, creed, color or profession.

What are their aims?

Principal aims of the society are to encourage horseback riding over the more remote trails of the Canadian Rockies, to encourage the construction of new trails and the maintenance and improvement of those already in use, to promote good fellowship, interest in wild life, and to co-operate with other organizations holding similar aims.

How are they governed?

Established in 1924 by John Murray Gibbon, well known author and lyricist, and retired general publicity agent for the Canadian Pacific Railway, the Trail Riders have their own constitution, executive officers, council, and various operating committees. A new slate of officers is elected annually, the office of President alternating each year between a Canadian and an American Trail Rider.

How is the camp conducted?

Trail Riders make their headquarters at a permanent camp from which a series of outstanding trails radiate. They set out each morning, lunch on the trail, and return to camp at nightfall for supper, singsong and campfire entertainment. Riders make their homes in teepees, artistically decorated by Indians of the local Stony tribe. Sleeping bags take the place of beds.

How do I join the annual ride?

To make application for any of the annual rides simply drop a note to the Secretary-Treasurer, Trail Riders of the Canadian Rockies, Banff, Alta., enclosing a deposit of $10.00, and stating which of the rides you wish to attend. If you find it necessary to cancel your reservation on or before June 15 your deposit is refunded. If it is your first ride, the Secretary-Treasurer will enclose an "outfitter's form" requesting information as to your experience, weight, etc., so that a suitable horse may be assigned. That's all there is to it.

What is the cost of a ride?

Cost of each five-day ride at present is $60.00. This includes horse and saddle equipment, teepee accommodation, meals in camp and on the trail, guide services, gratuities and, this year, bus transportation between Banff and Sunshine Lodge.

The organization also has on hand a limited number of sleeping bags to rent for $5.00 for the duration of the camp. Those who have their own, of course, are asked to bring them along.

How are applications considered?

Each of the five-day rides is limited to 50 riders. It is only fair, therefore, that applications be accepted in order of their arrival. Members and prospective members should have their applications in before June 1. However, if vacancies still exist after that date further applications will be accepted.

What experience is required?

You don't need to be an expert or even a mediocre rider to join the organization. Some join the rides with little or no experience in the saddle. The horses are mild mannered, sure footed mountain cayuses who are noted for their dependability on the trails.

The cavalcade moves in single file at a slow walk, an average day's ride comprising 10 to 12 miles with frequent rest periods. Seated in a big western saddle with hand resting on saddle horn, even the greenest dude can watch the landscape in complete comfort and security. And if you happen to be weary some morning you can laze around camp all day without loss of face!

How do I become a member?

To be a full-fledged member of the organization you must have at least 50 miles of Rocky Mountain trail riding to your credit. This mileage can be acquired either with the Trail Riders themselves or independently.

Upon completion of a membership form and payment of the annual $2.00 fee, you become a full-fledged member and are entitled to wear the button of the order, these varying with your accumulated mileage. (See page 16) As a member you are entitled to receive the Trail Rider's official magazine, issued three times a year. You also become eligible for any office in the executive or council.

A Message from the President

I HAVE been informed by the Bulletin editor that he plans to lead off the June issue with an article entitled "A Message from the President" and my job, he says, is to supply that message.

Inasmuch as this gives me the opportunity of greeting so large a proportion of our members and of extending a warm western welcome to all our newcomers, I am more than pleased to comply with the editor's request.

The summer of 1948 represents an important milestone in Trail Ride history. Not only does it mark the introduction of an important new feature, the 12-day ride, to our summer program but it marks also the 25th anniversary of our organization.

It was during a rainy summer afternoon in 1923 that the "trail ride" idea was born. Inside a tent, high in the Canadian Rockies, 14 trail riders were awaiting the abatement of a storm before continuing their ride. In the course of reviewing the day's ride, one member of the party suggested the formation of a permanent trail ride organization.

And now, 25 years later, the full impact of that suggestion can be appraised in its proper light. From that small group of 14 riders has emerged an organization, international in scope, with an official membership of 1,000 names. It is safe to say that these results have exceeded the wildest dreams of the founders.

Many individuals have figured prominently in the development of the Trail Riders. On this 25th anniversary, however, we pay special tribute to one whose name will be forever associated with the organization—John Murray Gibbon, who framed the society's constitution and fostered its subsequent development.

Secretary-treasurer until his retirement in 1944, Mr. Gibbon has missed only one annual ride in the long history of the organization. According to latest reports he will be with us again this summer for at least one of the rides. He will be assured of a warm and sincere welcome from us all.

Our congratulations also go out to our past presidents, a number of whom participated in the original ride. As a tribute to the role they have played in the society's development each has been invited to this year's grand pow-wow as honorary guest of the Trail Riders.

I cannot let this occasion pass without extending a special welcome to those who are about to enjoy their first outing with the Trail Riders of the Canadian Rockies. I use the word "enjoy" because I consider that a foregone conclusion. Trail Riders are a friendly people bound together by ties of good fellowship. They will lose no time in sharing this good fellowship with the newcomers.

Trail ride days are just around the corner. Soon we shall be greeting each other in person and once more experiencing the joys of the trail which in later years may well be looked back upon as among our happiest experiences.

And now, on the eve of our 25th birthday, I conclude with a "Many happy returns to the Trail Riders of the Canadian Rockies" and good luck to all its members.

— Harold W. Price

DON'T FORGET!

All duffle must be deposited at the Mount Royal Hotel by 4.00 p.m. on the day before the commencement of each Trail Ride. This enables our outfitter to have the duffle transported to our central camp well in advance of our arrival.

Here's your chance to learn map reading the easy way. It's yours — take it away.

NO NEED to consult that calendar to check up on trail ride dates. "T-Day" is just around the corner and who of us aren't counting the days till that corner is rounded!

Most of us know about the campsite and have a general idea of where the trails will wind, this information being contained in a circular issued several months ago.

Since the communiques were issued, however, we have covered a considerable amount of ground (on trails, on foot and on paper) and it is now possible to draw the curtain and get a glimpse of what the future has in store.

First of all, let's refresh our memories, and review the dates. These, as most of us know, are July 16-20 and July 23-27 for the first two five-day rides, and July 16-27 for the king-size 12-day ride designed for our more saddle-worthy vets.

Central campsite for each of the five-day rides will be established at the headwaters of the Simpson River near the foot of Citadel Pass as shown on the Trail Ride map on page 4. And we might add that some of the area's most spectacular trails emanate from this point.

And now let us suppose the calendar reads (July 16 or July 23). If it's after 8.00 a.m. you'd better hurry to the Mount Royal Hotel. Otherwise the bus for Sunshine Lodge may leave you behind! We have taken for granted that your duffle was stowed away the previous day, this being a "must" unless you want to borrow your neighbor's duds.

At the stroke of nine our bus rumbles up Banff Avenue and is soon climbing the tor-

OH BOY! WHAT A TRAIL

Your Cayuse Is Waiting

tuous 14-mile roadway to the Lodge which commands an imposing position 7,300 feet above sea level. From this vantage point we obtain a glimpse of "things to come" in the superscenery department. And here too we make the acquaintance of our guides and horses who will be our close companions for the next five days.

The Ride Begins

From Sunshine Lodge our cavalcade winds in a southeasterly direction, through open alpine country, skirting the shores of Rock Isle Lake, treating us to a view of Larix Lake, and then on to Citadel Pass.

Now the trail descends into the valley to the main headwaters of the Simpson River, named after Sir George Simpson, Governor of the Hudson's Bay Company, who crossed the river on his journey around the world in 1841. It is from here that we sight the white pointed spires of Teepee Town where we spend our next four nights under canvas. Supper, singsong and slumber and our first day has ended.

Down the Simpson

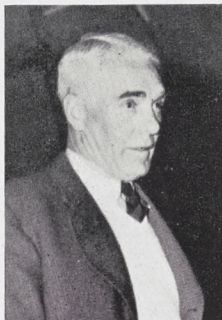

Another glamorous trail beckons us as we take to our horses on the second day of the five-day ride. This is the Simpson River trail which winds along the river's valley and which to most members is unexplored territory. As we follow the trail behind imposing Quartz Mountain we obtain an excellent view of the broad face of Monarch Mountain which rises to an elevation of more than 9,500 feet.

However, as Al Jolson has oft repeated, "You ain't seen nothin' yet!" And you can mull that thought over—whether you believe it or not—as you lie in your sleeping bag and look forward to the third day in the saddle—the third day that takes us to Mount Assiniboine, labelled by awestruck spectators as the Matterhorn of the Rockies.

The next morning finds us plodding along the Golden Valley, the spectacular Valley of the Rocks, past Og Lake and on to Mount Assiniboine, whose pyramid towers over 11,870 feet into the alpine sky.

You will also see the faces of your angling-minded colleagues light up as they get their first glimpse of Lake Magog which lies at the mountain's base. Nor need they be sparing

Greetings, Fellow Trail Riders:—

● Banff National Park extends a hearty welcome to all the Trail Riders who will be visiting here this summer.

The Park extends over an area of some twenty-five hundred square miles and it is not possible to provide close supervision and patrol for all the area.

Each and every person who hikes or rides in the Rockies, is a patrolman against the most dangerous of all hazards "FIRE", and I am relying on all of you to be the best patrolmen of the Rockies.

Sincerely,

J. A. HUTCHISON, Superintendent,
Banff National Park.

their optimism as the lake as well as nearby Cerulean and Sunburst are well stocked with scrappy and tasty mountain trout.

Comes the fourth day and we're off to Fatigue Pass—but don't let that name fool you. It's uphill work, granted, but our trusty horses take it in their stride with here and there time out for a "breather."

Our trail takes us up and over the big top that is Fatigue Pass, at an elevation of approximately 7,800 feet, and as the day wears on we find ourselves skirting the valley of Fatigue Creek which leads us to an old Trail Rider camp.

This interesting trail was traversed by Stony Indians when they went hunting in the Assiniboine district or while on their way to the Mitchell and Cross Rivers to trade with the Kootenays. This was long before the white man came along and the ride should be a field-day for those who like taking their imagination on a journey through bygone days.

Our last day in the saddle takes us again over lush alpine valleys and among the larches bordering the Rocky Mountain timberline. Again we are treated to the profusion of alpine flowers that carpet the skyward meadows, including the familiar Indian paint brush flower whose species range in color from deep reds and purples to a pale green.

Late in the afternoon we enter familiar territory and before we know it the rustic walls of Sunshine Lodge bob into view.

The Twelve-Day Trail Ride

TWELVE glorious days in the saddle lie ahead for approximately 20 Trail Riders who will set out from Sunshine Lodge on July 16 on a ride that will take them through some of the choicest riding trails in the Canadian Rockies.

Introduced at the suggestion of some of our veteran members who had a craving for longer and tougher trails, the 12-day ride is limited to 20 members of the organization who have been chosen by a special selection committee from the list of all applicants submitted.

An interesting and spectacular itinerary has been set for members of the "long ride." They will set out with members of the first five-day ride on July 16, keep them company on the trails and in camp until the afternoon of July 18 when they will establish camp at Mount Assiniboine while the five-day group returns to Simpson River.

During the next few days the 12-day riders will camp at Mount Assiniboine, Brewster Creek and Fatigue Creek before joining the second five-day group on July 24 at the Simpson River camp. During the remainder of the ride they will keep company with the five-day group and will accompany them back to Banff for the pow-wow.

It is gratifying to note that interest in the 12-day ride has been far greater than originally anticipated and from all indications it would appear that the event will become a permanent fixture on the trail ride program.

We congratulate those whose names have been approved by the selection committee and feel sure that all participants will have the time of their lives.

For Your Bookshelves

THREE potential "best-sellers" have emerged from the skilful pens of at least three prominent Trail Riders and Sky Line Trail Hikers during the past 12 months, and all three are strongly recommended to lovers of nature and those interested in Canada's past and present.

The books referred to are "Our Old Montreal," by John Murray Gibbon of Montreal; "Hill-Top Tales," by Dan McCowan of Banff, and "Great Chiefs and Mighty Hunters of the Western Plains", by Mary Weekes of Regina.

Corral Chatter

by TILLIE KNIGHT

HELLO folks! Along the winter trail of Scoop, our noose hoss (who sees all, hears all but only gives a loud "neigh" to gossip) we hear that our genial president, Doc Harold Price, mixed business and pleasure when attending a medical convention in Dallas, Texas, and visited with Mrs. Patton and Barbara (Smokey) and friends. He also gave the Lone Star State folks ideas of the 1948 Rides.

Our campfire songstress, Jean Stewart, diverted her energies to skiing this winter and is now a full fledged ski instructor in Fort William. Wonder if she really wanted to ski or to learn to yodel? How about it, Jean?

Yours truly took time off from toiling to spend a couple of months with brother Harry in Arizona. (He's a graduate cowboy and rancher from the Kananaskis Ranch). 'Tis a grand place in the winter, weather about 70° every day with bright sunshine — like Alberta, but alas! no rain. If they could have some of our mountain streams it would be Utopia.

Met Mr. & Mrs. Walt Coburn of Tucson, Arizona. He is the well-known author of western stories and being a trail rider, he asked about old-timers, Carl Rungius, Bill Brewster, Norman Luxton, Jimmy Simpson and many others. If their plans work out, the Coburn's will both be out in the Canadian Rockies this summer.

Visited with Mr. & Mrs. Earl Thode, the former world champion cowboy and a winner at the Calgary Stampede many times over.

FROM OUR '47 FILES

● Scenes at right will bring back fond memories to those who participated in last year's Trail Rides and will make newcomers more impatient than ever to get out there in those big hills where informality reigns supreme.

To refresh your memories, vets, and to tip off you new forty-eighters, we quote below what we remember of the those depicted, reading from top to bottom:

(1) Trail rider threesome talks it over on the grassy floor of a teepee. No doubt they're relaxing after a day on the trails.

(2) Wally Kirkland, Life magazine photographer, had a wonderful appetite in the Canadian Rockies. Being an ace photographer himself he knows a good picture when he sees it. That's why we know Wally will like this one.

(3) Ruth Brewster (right) dishes out the soup, beautiful soup, to a comely member of the trail ride clan.

(4) Lunchtime on the trail, the pause that refreshes, or phooey to table-cloths... Take your choice. And does that grassy meadow ever look comfortable.

Have You Forgotten Anything?

"WHAT do I take on the ride?"—That's the sixty-four dollar question for most dudes when they're ready for their first saddle sortie to the skyline!

The answer seems simple enough for us mountain vets who wear silver, gold and enamel buttons. But for our colleagues-to-be, many of whom have never seen the Rockies and are unfamiliar with the whims of the mountain elements, it's a different story.

So gather around, all you Trail Riders to be, and we'll tell you what that duffle bag should hold to ensure a healthy and happy vacation.

To begin with you can't be healthy or happy if you're wet and cold. Right? So make sure you're prepared for chilly evenings and the occasional alpine shower. Remember that our campsite is nearly two miles above sea level and when the sun sinks behind those horizons the mercury sinks with it. Some nights the mercury falls close to the freezing point — even in July.

So we suggest you bring along a good heavy sweater, blanket coat, leather wind-breaker or something equally snug to wrap yourself in at the evening singsong or when you're setting out on a chilly morning's ride.

By noon you may be riding in your shirt sleeves (that's how quickly it warms up in the daytime) but it's hardly likely you'll start off that way.

To be happy in the saddle you have to be foot-happy as well. Let your conscience be your guide in choosing riding boots. Any type of footwear from the fancy high-heeled cowboy style to the sturdy knee-high riding boot is suitable on the trail.

Above all, your boots should be strictly waterproof. If not you are asking for trouble. Even if it doesn't rain you'll find those early morning and late evening dews just as wet and just as penetrating. And don't forget to wear good sturdy sox, the kind that keep blisters and callouses at a respectable distance. And make sure you have a few extra pairs in that duffle bag just in case.

Whatever you wear, be sure they're 'broken in' (like the horses) in advance.

Jodhpurs or overalls

Riding breeches, jodhpurs, blue denims and corduroys are all popular with Trail Riders. If you wear two-piece winter underwear you can leave the top half at home but don't forget the lower section. You will save yourself a lot of painful leg chafing if you come supplied with this humble garment.

Time out on Citadel Pass

Moving further along the anatomy we come to the subject of shirts. The shirt should be chosen with particular care as this is the garment you will be seen in most of the time. Gay plaids, checks, or just plain red, green, blue or khaki should suit you to perfection. These should be of flannel or some other sturdy material designed for warmth as well as style.

And now to top things off you need a hat—that is, if you wear one. Headgear on the trail ride ranges from ten-gallon styles to the simple beret. You have all the leeway you like here but you'd better leave your Easter bonnet at home. A hat that will shed rain, however, is a great asset when Mr. Pluvius gives with the waterworks.

Gloves are handy

Gloves are a must for every trail rider. Just try riding a few miles without them and you'll know the reason why! And when Old Sol starts pouring on the ultra-violet be sure that it lands on a neckerchief rather than your neck. You know by experience how sunburn can ruin your holiday. Rocky Mountain sunshine is particularly powerful, so be prepared.

That takes care of the big items. Now let's get to the smaller items that don't take up much room in your duffle but add considerably to the joy of your ride. These include, in addition to your toilet set, a metal drinking cup (to attach to your saddle) a pocket knife, a flashlight, a length of good stout cord, your favorite sunburn lotion, waterproof match box and matches, camera film, confectionery (if you have room) sun glasses, and a good big smile.

If we've forgotten anything we apologize. But we think we've put you on the right track. You'll probably look swell, anyway.

FIVE GOOD TIPS

1. Have your cinches looked to before you start and every time you stop for a rest on the ride.
2. Strap a slicker or raincoat behind your saddle in case of a shower.
3. Get on and off your horse with your left foot in the stirrup.
4. Sit with your shoulders back and ride with an easy balance.
5. Give your horse as well as yourself an hour for lunch at mid-day.

"LET'S FENCE US IN"

Let it rain, let it blow! Who cares?

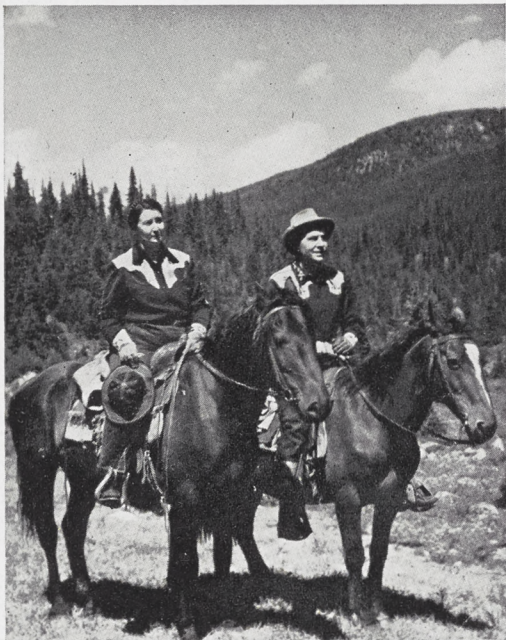

If by some remote chance it does rain or blow unusually hard some evening in camp, you won't have to run off in all directions to your respective teepees in the middle of a sing-song.

No, the show will go on. Why? Because Claude's arranged to tote along a collapsible amphitheatre which when put together resembles the walls of the big pow-wow tent. And that's just what they are.

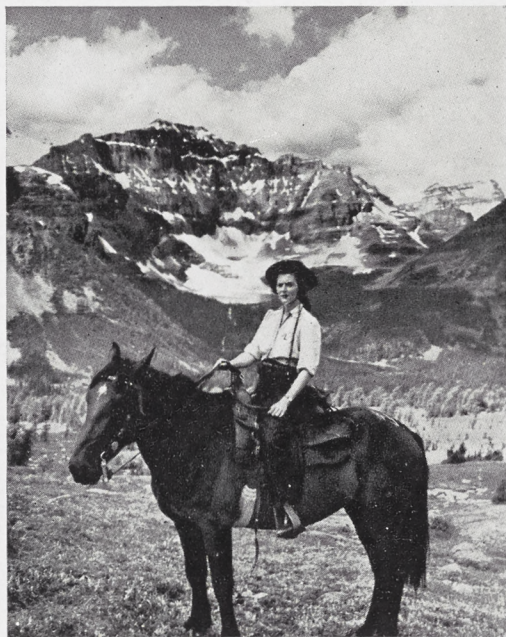

The need for a community tent has long been emphasized by dudes and outfitter alike—but until they introduce a considerably larger critter than a mountain cayuse the job of hauling out so large a shelter so many miles will be next to impossible.

But Claude tells us the big tent's wall can stand the journey so along it comes. So now we'll be shut off from the annoyance of boisterous mountain breezes and should it rain the walls can be pulled over "lean-to style" and give us added protection.

It remains to be seen how effective the wall will be under all circumstances but it's certainly a step in the right direction.

Let's get together

● Those who have read their Trail Ride Constitution may recall a section defining our principal objectives, among which is our will to co-operate "with other organizations with similar aims."

Everyone will agree that this idea has merit. It can be accomplished of course, in a number of ways, one of them being through exchange of Bulletins. In this way each can form a more accurate picture of the goings-on in each other's camp and a better understanding of each other's problems.

We would appreciate hearing from any such kindred trail organization and adding its name to our exchange list. Their publications or any literature describing their activities would also be welcomed.

About Your Dues

All those who have not yet paid their annual dues for 1948 are requested to forward same to the Secretary-Treasurer on or before July 31, 1948.

Annual dues are two dollars, and entitle members to receive the Trail Ride Bulletin which is issued three times yearly.

When more than one Trail Rider is involved in same remittance, please have separate checks made out for each individual to facilitate book-keeping practices.

ATTENTION! CAMERA FANS

Have you room for an additional trophy on your mantel-piece? If so tell the others to move over and make way for a replica of the Townsend Trophy which—if you take pictures—has as good a chance of ending up in your home as any other.

Yes, the handsome silver trophy, awarded by Reginald Townsend, one of our charter members, for what the judges consider the best effort of the year's ride, is again up for competition and wondering whose name will appear beneath that of last year's winner, Frank Arnott.

Though the silver trophy is a bit too large to do much travelling itself, the winner receives a small silver replica of the original with his or her name inscribed on its shiny exterior. The winning photo is also given a full page presentation in the Bulletin.

You don't have to be an expert to be the winner. A box camera has as good a chance of snapping the judge's choice as an expensive high precision model.

Here are a few rules to remember when submitting your photos: (1) Photos must be printed in glossy finish. (2) Photos should be no larger than 8 by 10 inches. (3) Name of photographer must be contained in a sealed envelope on the outside of which is printed a "nom de plume" to identify the sender, the same "nom de plume" to be printed plainly on the back of every picture submitted. (4) Photos should not be submitted later than March, 1949. (5) Please send all entries to the Secretary-Treasurer.

Trail Trials

Meet the New Secretary

Doc and Tillie tell what they know about Graham Nichols.
The rest you will have to find out for yourselves.

Doc and Tillie: Trail Riders, come ye one and all and gather 'round our campfire while we initiate our new secretary-treasurer to all comers!

Doc: Do you think this guy is a Westerner, a tenderfoot, or just how did he come to get hisself lassooed into this job?

Tillie: I don't know very much about Graham's early life, but he first saw dawn in Winnipeg, Man., received his education at Trinity College School, Mt. Allison University and finished up at Manitoba U which makes him the beginning of a Westerner.

Doc: O.K., he's passed the first test.

Tillie: About 1939 he decided he was ready to start on the uphill career of a press man and calmly (??) walked in to see Mr. J. M. Gibbon (then General Publicity Agent for the C.P.R. at Montreal) and started his varied career as an assistant press representative. From then on he has plugged steadily forward and, we hope, upward. Doc, did you ever hear Graham play the organ?

Doc: I sure have, but if I remember correctly the organ lost a chord on the Eohippus Lake trip, or was that the chord to the pack train outfit? ?? I've heard along the musical vine that Graham has been very successful with his musical writings, having won a contest on an Allan Young broadcast. The piece "We used to call it Home Sweet Home" was later published in New York. Maybe, we'll have copies of it for our Trail Ride campfire songs. Guess he passes the second test.

Tillie: Graham won his bronze and silver mileage buttons, but 'tis said 'twas 'cause he carried one small buckskin hoss to Mt. Assiniboine in 1943 — no, that's not quite correct — but the truth of the matter is that when Tiger (the buckskin) trotted along the trail he was a six-legged hoss, Graham's long legs overhanging a little.

And now, Graham, let's hear a word or two in your own defence.

Graham: "Thanks a lot, folks; I see where I'll have a job living all this down. However, I fully appreciate the honor of being placed in the position of secretary-treasurer of this great organization and I'll spare no effort to give it the service it merits.

Right now I have a three-point program. Firstly: to streamline and modernize the mailing list (loud cheers). Secondly: to put the Bulletins on a three-a-year schedule (louder cheers) and thirdly (laugh if you like) to convince everyone that Tiger is still the champeenist mountain-going and river-going cayuse in these hyar hills.

Here's to happy days of riding and more horsepower to all of you.

Graham Nichols

The Suggestion Box

Trail Riders! Here's your chance to put that idea of yours on the record. Perhaps you know of a way to improve the Bulletin, to tame a spruce-bough mattress or to make your horse stop laughing when you do the wrong thing.

After all the whole organization is the result of individual ideas, imagination and foresight. So to you "idea men" and women we dedicate the "Suggestion Box". The lid is always open. Bring on those suggestions.

Winnipeg, Mar. 3, 1948

Dear Mr. Editor:—

I am a great booster for your little Bulletin but why not inject a bit of humor into it?

So many funny things happen on the rides that would appeal to readers, both trail riders and outsiders. Or better still why not start a "Funny Story" contest based on actual humorous experiences on past rides?

A prize might be offered to the rider submitting the biggest howler.

Betty Lou

Many thanks, Betty Lou, for a super suggestion. It's so good that we've decided to introduce it with the next issue. — Ed.

Vancouver, B.C., Feb. 22, 1948

Dear Editor:—

Why not go in more for personals? Most of us are interested in hearing about our pals of yester-trail and what they're doing and where they're doing it. Somehow, I think the Bulletin misses a bet there. I'd like to see more stuff like Tillie Knight's "Corral Chatter". Come on, Mr. Editor, Give.

Westerner

Thanks, Westerner, we quite agree with you. So, come on Trail Riders, what are you waiting for?—Ed.

Top to Bottom:

(1) Cool clear water — Thirsty trail riders reach an oasis on the trail and make the most of it.

(2) Roland Wild of Vancouver and pretty daughter Susan enjoy family chat in teepee's cozy confines.

(3) Mrs. Gertrude Tees of Vancouver and Life magazine's Wally Kirkland of Chicago talk over the teacups at Healy Creek.

(4) Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Doig of Brandon, Man. say "nightie-night" after day on the trails.

A Few Hints on Etiquette

THIS is your first Trail Ride and you want to do right by your friends and your horse so you'll be one of those real happy riders who enjoys the ride to the fullest extent and helps others to do the same.

For the benefit of all newcomers (and we give them a big warm welcome) we quote below a few hints on "trail etiquette" that should be helpful around camp and on the march. Here they are.

Corral Assembly—Here's where you and your cayuse begin a beautiful friendship, and you're naturally eager to see what he looks like. A slip showing the initial and number and name of the guide who handles your horse will be given you by Claude Brewster.

Your guide will be glad to check your cinches and other saddle equipment so don't be bashful about asking. Chances are he can also give you a few pointers on your horse's personality as well! And while you're there you had better fasten your slicker on to your saddle. That sky looks mighty blue right now but alpine weather can be very temperamental at times.

This done, you can talk to your horse, your guide or your new found trail companions till the gang is ready to march off. It's an imposing sight when the riders line up single file and move slowly down the trail, so don't start off in advance and reduce the ranks.

On the Trail—The president and his wife—and the chief guide lead the way along the trail. If, after the ride has started, you see a special friend farther up front with whom you wish to ride, better wait till the next rest period. It is not considered good etiquette to "break ranks" and cut in ahead at frequent intervals.

Smoking on the trails just isn't done. It's not a matter of morals but of fire prevention. The mountains can be tinder dry at that time of the year and a carelessly dropped cigarette stub could have disastrous consequences. However, there are frequent rest periods and that fag will taste all the better if you put it off for awhile.

Let's Eat—First major break in the day's ride is the noon lunch period. This is usually taken at a picturesque spot enroute and you'll be right ready for those vitamins after a morning in the saddle.

Give your horse a break too. He is probably a trifle saddle-sore himself and would probably be mightily grateful if you loosened his saddle. Though this is not essential be sure to untie the lines. Horses have been known to injure themselves severely by tripping over knotted lines that have been allowed to hang free.

And now the kettle's boiling and you smell the good aroma of tea and coffee. The sandwiches and other goodies are waiting for you, so go to it.

You don't find garbage collectors at these high altitudes so you have to do the job yourself. All wrappings and left-overs (if you have any) should be collected and deposited in the fire. Then you won't hear future campers cast slurs on our good house-keeping methods.

Teepee Town Ahead—And now comes the moment we've been waiting for—the first glimpse of our teepee camp—our home for the next few days. You wonder which teepee will be your home sweet home. Chances are the teepee committee will have numbers and names on the teepees when you arrive. If not you won't have long to wait.

It's too early for bed of course but you'd better look ahead. Chances are you brought your own sleeping bag. If not just drop around to the chief's teepee and you'll get the one you reserved earlier this year with blankets thrown in. As we don't go in for luxury mattresses you'll have to take a bough—excuse please, spruce boughs, and you'll find them available right in Teepee Town. Ask some veteran trail rider to help

Why not be a Life Member?

Do you wear the gold button for 500 miles or a button of still higher denomination? If so, you are eligible for life membership in the Trail Riders!

Life membership entitles members to compound their paid and future dues by payment of $25.00 which absolves them from any further payment of annual dues.

A handsome certificate, surmounted by a trail ride etching by R. H. Palenske, and suitable for framing, is presented the life member upon payment of one dollar extra.

Further information will be supplied on request by the Secretary-Treasurer.

you prepare the spruce mattress. There's a real art to the job.

Come and Get It?—That familiar call from the cook tent will be music to your ears. You know the Irish story about all cooks being temperamental. Well, that goes double for trail ride cooks. Like the horses, they really have their woes. (Who said that?)

Remember trail ride cooks are working under handicaps even though they do turn out a sumptuous line of eats. So let's give the cooks all the available territory immediately around the cookhouse. Sure, they like you, but they can't tell you their life story with one eye on the flapjacks, the other on the coffee, and their hands juggling various victuals and utensils.

After you pick up your plate and cutlery stroll over to the serving booth and help yourself from that canvas-covered mountain-going buffet. Then wander off and find yourself a comfy spot and fall to. The serving table, remember, is just that and not intended to be used as a lunch counter.

Remember how you cleaned up your plate at lunch time? Here you do the same thing only you have a nice dishwashing stand on which to lay your plate and eating utensils.

But (it says here in large print) please don't leave your dirty dishes in a clump of long grass. Imagine how it would feel if you stepped on one in your bare feet.

Round the Campfire — Here's your chance to be a good scout. If you can sing give with all you've got. Who knows, there may be a talent scout sitting next to you. If you can't sing, sing anyway. Plenty of them can't and they do it! When you hear the strains of the accordion, the cheery crackle of the big campfire, you just can't help raising your voice to those Rocky Mountain stars and that magic alpine moon.

Skits and games are also big factors on the program. So don't hide your light under a bushel. If you can recite a funny story, juggle a couple of eggs, walk on your hands or dance a jig, let's hear about it. And if you have an instrument — unless it's a grand piano—bring it along.

And now as old Man Moon beams gently down over Teepee Town we regretfully take our leave from this scene of fun and frolic. But we'll be there again on July 16th. Yes Siree!

Our Trail Ride Buttons Give Oomph & Glamor

"I feel half undressed without my Trail Ride Button," one enthusiastic member remarked to your editor a few weeks ago. Whether or not his statement was slightly exaggerated the fact still remains that most of us take a special pride in sporting the bronze, silver, gold and enamel buttons that show at a glance the approximate mileage we have covered on Rocky Mountain trails.

The idea of issuing "progressive badges" captured the riders' fancy from the start and many confess a thrill of no mean proportions when they graduate from one category to another and turn in their old button for a glistening new model.

By the end of this summer's rides many members will be in the market for new buttons. In addition to receiving the new buttons their names will be transferred on the Bulletin membership list to the higher brackets. And while we're on the subject we'd like to remind all members whose names are shown in the wrong groups, omitted completely, or mis-spelled, to drop a hint to the editor. The error will be promptly corrected.

For the information of our newcomers we print below the six styles of buttons and their present price. The pins are designed for men's lapels with screw cap and in brooch style for the ladies. Though designs are different, the size, shape and color combinations are similar in both cases.

● This poem was written while the Iowa Mountaineering Club was camped last year in the Glacier Circle at the foot of the Illecillewaet Glacier in the heart of the Selkirk Range.

From this primitive camp, members of the Club, among them being Miss Burns, climbed the surrounding peaks and glaciers, hiked along scenic trails and meditated upon the wilderness beauty of the Canadian west.

In the poem Mount Sir Donald finds a voice to greet the visitors.

Mrs. H. J. Vanek and friend at home in Wisconsin.

Sir Donald Speaks

Welcome, young strangers, who stand there so proudly,
Out of your offices, out of your schools,
Welcome to towering trees, and the darkness
Of needle-soft foot trails, and deep forest pools.

Welcome to days filled with snow-covered mountains
Haloed with crystals of sparkling sunlight,
Welcome to evenings of leaping red campfires,
Welcome to night roads when star-shine is bright.

Welcome to gray skies, and slow rain's soft whisper;
To the first rosy kiss of the newly-born sun;
Welcome to sunset, and the soft mountain shadows
That creep up the valley when day's work is done.

We are the mountains who stand here before you.
On our rocky slopes you will climb to the dawn:
Our voice will sing in the sigh of the night wind
When kingdoms have crumbled and strong men are gone!

Bags of Slumber

Yessir, there are four insomnia-proof nights awaiting you this summer at Citadel Pass — not in a four-poster bed but in a soft, resilient, cozy sleeping bag designed to suit the decorative theme of a canvas teepee, a grassy carpet and a mattress of pungent evergreen boughs.

Perhaps you have your own sleeping bag or bedroll in which case you have already experienced the joys of burrowing down into the soft padded folds on a crisp cool night under canvas. If so you will, of course, add it to your duffle.

For those not similarly equipped we have a limited supply of bags which can be rented to riders for $5.00 for the camps five-day duration. Rubber ground sheets and blankets are supplied at no extra cost.

All sleeping bags have been completely dry cleaned within the past two months while blankets have been similarly cleaned and disinfected. So prepare yourself for the thrill of a trailtime — a night of dreamless sleep among the embracing folds of a sleeping bag. Ho-Hum...

When Carl Rungius goes fishing, he gets results. Here he holds proof of what Rocky Mountain waters can do for anglers.

Tired of your Horse ? Try Hiking — It's Fun

Maybe you don't know it, but there's a big difference between walking and hiking. Did you know that you can hike six or eight miles on Rocky Mountain trails and arrive back refreshed and exhilarated even though you're ready to drop after a walk of six or eight blocks on city pavements?

No one knows this better than the Sky Line Trail Hikers of the Canadian Rockies who this year are holding their annual camp at the summit of Citadel Pass from July 31 to August 4. This hike-happy throng will be taken by bus from Banff to Sunshine Lodge, from which point they will hike the approximate seven miles to their teepee camp.

Each day the hikers will set out on new trails, with their sights set at such familiar hike landmarks as Fatigue Pass, Quartz Hill, Howard Douglas Creek and connecting trails. At nightfall they return to camp for supper, singsong and entertainment.

Though most Trail Riders may prefer horsepower to their own limbs it is quite possible that some may wish to stretch their legs after five days in the saddle. So why not join up for five glorious days of hiking with members of your sister organization, the Skyliners? You will meet a number of your trail riding friends and enjoy once more the teepee life, campfire fellowship and glories of the alpine trails.

Cost of the five-day hike is $26.00, this including teepee accommodation, meals, gratuities, and bus fare between Banff and Sunshine Lodge. Sleeping bags can be rented for $5.00 in camp. Membership in the order is one dollar a year, and life membership $10.00 including receipt of the Bulletin.

Further details will be gladly supplied on request by the Secretary-Treasurer, Sky-Line Trail Hikers of the Canadian Rockies, Banff, Alta., Canada.

Come on, You Hikers !

Hikers, you have a date with the Trail Riders at their grand pow-wow at Banff Springs Hotel on July 27 !

This invitation has been extended by the executive and members of your sister organization and we do hope you will come along and join in the fun.

Many of you will be in Banff then for your annual hike on July 31 and what better way could you spend the night of the 27th than by watching the riders go into their act ?

There's a place for you in the pow-wow tent — and a big welcome as well.

Souvenirs that Gleam

Souvenirs, beaten out of gleaming copper by the skilful hand of Ted Janes of Banff, will be offered for sale to Trail Riders during the current summer season.

Mr. Janes, one of the very few coppersmiths now doing business in this country, has made the souvenirs in the form of a cooking bar with suspended billy can which can be used as ash tray, pin tray or just as an ornament.

On the side of the container the words "Trail Ride — 1948" are engraved.

Mr. Janes emphasized that these will be for sale to Trail Riders only and if the idea catches on he plans to dream up a new idea for next year's ride.

The souvenirs will be on display during Trail Ride time at "Coppercraft" just off Banff Avenue.

Come and Get It!

● Never let it be said that the Inner Man is neglected while on the trail!

Each morning and evening a delicious hot full course meal is dished up by the camp's competent cooking staff who know full well what that alpine air can do for the appetite.

On the trail the picture is equally appetizing, the custom being to serve wholesome and tasty picnic lunches at a spot where cold running water is available for hot tea and coffee.

Nor does this end the daily activities of "Operation Chomp Chomp". Each evening during the campfire singsong a kindly hand is extended your way with a steaming cup of hot chocolate and all the sweet biscuits you can put away.

Trail Riders are responsible for obtaining their own breakfasts in Banff on the first morning of the ride. Evening dinner on the last day is provided by the Trail Riders on the pow-wow grounds at Banff Springs Hotel.

The Lowest Trick of All

*In ancient days the red man
These mountains high did roam,
He had to have a shelter
A pre-fabricated home.*

*So with two ancient moose hides
And a dozen lodgepole sticks
He made the present teepee
The lowest of his tricks.*

*He had a fire inside for warmth
Of course the fire did smoke
As the redman wiped his wat'ry eyes
He chuckled o'er his joke.*

*He rigged an air conditioner
At the top he put some holes
Above the door he sewed two flaps
Held up by great long poles.*

*He knew he'd never master it
This draft controlling vent
He said "The white man soon will come I'll trade it for a tent."*

*For what he said indeed came true
Long after he had died,
The white man liked his teepee tall
He used it on the Ride.*

*Now many Rides have come and gone,
In camp the teepees stand;
In storms they wobble with the wind
And flap to beat the band.*

*Then when the wind is shifting
And you go and change the flap
A vagrant puff comes in the top —
The fire is in your lap.*

*And as you struggle with the poles
To regulate that vent
With the old redman you'll agree
You'd rather have a tent.*

Pity Poor Mr. Gopher!

by DAN McCOWAN

● He never develops a thirst, is out of circulation six months a year and seldom lives to a ripe old age. A "blue plate special" for a wide variety of furred and feathered carnivores he must constantly be on the alert. Otherwise he'll be lucky if he reaches his first anniversary. And very few of them ever do.

The gopher — poor fellow.

ON UPLAND moors and meadows frequented in summer by Trail Riders and Hikers the Columbian ground squirrel, better known perhaps as mountain gopher, is most common of the small mammals visible throughout the Canadian Rockies.

Although of little commercial value to mankind, either as fur or food, it is nevertheless of supreme importance to all birds and beasts of prey during summer months—in fact it might then be regarded by carnivores as a universal provider. The weasel and the coyote, the cougar and the lynx, the fox and the badger—these are high bidders in the market for gopher meat. All hawks and eagles are likewise a potential menace to the rodents, making life above ground extremely hazardous. Even deep down in the friendly earth the gopher tribe is by no means in sanctuary and secure from harm.

When the green of timberline larches has turned to gold and all the ptarmigan have donned their new white garb the scrounging grizzly bear temporarily forswears vegetable food and fortifies himself against the rigors of oncoming winter by a seasonal diet of gopher. This is obtained, not by speed of foot nor by stealth, but by extensive and laborious excavation.

For a mere half pound of fresh ground squirrel a great grey bear will willingly plough up half an acre of alpine meadow and move half a ton of soil. The more prudent gophers, averse to sudden eviction, resort to funk holes under the tough and gnarly roots of sturdy larch trees from whence they are not easily displaced.

In gaining a livelihood the gophers resident in the Rockies are almost entirely dependent on juicy plants and on succulent grasses. Thus when, in late August, frost puts the bite on the stalks and foliage of anemones, lousewort, heliotrope and asters, and when the grass becomes tawny and dry, these small animals are deprived of suitable fodder and forced into retirement.

The period of hibernation is lengthy—few of the creatures are seen abroad in the mountains between Labor Day and May Day. Relying on a supply of body fat to tide them over the season of frost and snow they also store small quantities of seeds underground—not for use during winter but as emergency rations against possible famine days when spring is tardy.

Gophers of this species never develop a thirst and thus are habitual total abstainers even from pure water. They may betimes wet their whistles from the odd mountain dew drop but otherwise are confirmed "drys". It should perhaps be explained that part of the starchy food is converted into liquid within the stomach and thus animals of this breed are enabled to live in extremely arid areas. This wise provision on the part of Nature tends to promote longevity—while in quest of food a gopher seldom ventures further than about one hundred yards from home whereas with a thirst one might have to walk several miles to the nearest lake or creek.

Being as it were "out of circulation" for six months out of the twelve the adult female gopher raises but one family annually. All have birthdays in May or thereabouts and a litter may number up to ten. Few however live to a ripe old age or even reach their first anniversary. Otherwise the stately Canadian Rockies would be so overrun with gophers that trail riding and trail hiking might consequently suffer a serious set-back.

Columbian ground squirrels, being social in habit, are usually found living in small colonies numbering from ten to twenty inhabitants. Each pair has a self-contained dug-out with a handy front entrance and a convenient rear exit. During daylight hours of summer the animals may be seen foraging on the high meadows or heard calling amongst the alpine flowers which grow in profusion around their dwelling places.

The voice is singularly loud and the alarm note, a short sharp whistle, quite shrill. From a vantage point on the earthen mound at the entrance to the burrow the most wide-awake member of the community, spotting a skulking coyote or a dangerous rough-leg hawk in the offing, broadcasts a warning to all concerned, flicking the tail, apparently attached to the vocal cords, as each note is uttered.

But both hawks and coyotes habitually put one over on the gophers by hunting in pairs—one member of the team purposely attracting the attention of the upstanding squirrels whilst the other sneaks up from the rear to grab an astonished and luckless victim by the scruff of the neck. Owls, being permanently on night shift, are not troublesome to the strictly day-frequenting gophers but a certain species of wood tick, guilty of giving succour to the spotted fever microbe, makes life unpleasant both day and night.

When summer is merging into autumn all members of this highland clan of earthy squirrels have become much less active, delighting then to bask for hours in mellow sunshine, enjoying to the full the few remaining days wherein they may be at liberty. A powdering of fresh snow on the lofty peaks and a crisp white frost on the meadow grass conveys warning to the gophers that another bright season has nearly ended—that the long long period of winter sleep is at hand—and so to bed.

Barbara Ann Invited

An invitation to attend the 1948 Trail Ride as guest of the organization was declined with regret by Miss Barbara Ann Scott as the result of previously arranged engagements during the summer months.

Below is a copy of the letter received by the secretary-treasurer from Miss Scott's secretary, Mrs. E. Hodgson:

Dear Sir:—

Miss Barbara Ann Scott has asked me to thank you for your letter of April 9, and for your very kind invitation for her to participate in one of your trail rides this summer.

Barbara Ann very much regrets that, owing to previously arranged engagements, she is unable to accept your invitation but she did ask me to convey to you and the members of your executive her sincere appreciation of your kindness.

Yours sincerely,

(Sgd) Mrs. E. Hodgson

TOWNSEND TROPHY WINNER

Looking South from Redearth Pass

Frank M. Arnett

Townsend Trophy Is Won by Frank Arnott

WHEN Trail Rider Frank M. Arnott of Toronto clicked his camera shutter near Redearth Pass last summer it netted him more than that photograph you see on the adjacent page. It won him also the Townsend Trophy, the coveted silver cup awarded for what the judges consider the most outstanding photograph taken on the annual Trail Ride.

In addition to having his name inscribed on the big cup's glittering surface, Mr. Arnott will also receive a duplicate of the trophy which is designed to fit the winner's mantel piece or other select spot round about home.

Those who participated in the 1947 sortie to the skyline will recognize the locale of the winning photo. The camera was pointing southwards from Redearth Pass when the shutter clicked. And that big mass of rock on the right of course, is none other than our old friend, Monarch Mountain.

The picture was taken with a Kodak Monitor special 616 size camera at 1-50 seconds at F. 11 with Ansco Superpan Supreme film.

Mr. Arnott, who has been on five trail rides to date and wears the gold button of the order for 500 and more miles, has been taking photographs as a hobby for about eight years and is going in more and more for competitive attempts. He is employed by the Steel Company of Canada in Toronto and during the war was attached to the Dominion Bridge Company for four years.

Though he resides in the east, Mr. Arnott hopes to move and "live in the western part of Canada in the near future". He also hopes to be on hand for the '48 ride.

WEDDING BELLS!

Your keyhole reporter hears from down Boston way that wedding bells rang in November for Dr. Howard P. Wood of the Massachusetts General Hospital, and Miss Anne Carrington.

Those of us who attended last year's ride require no introduction to Dr. Wood, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. Wistar Wood of Philadelphia and his younger brother, M. Wistar Wood, Jr. Our sincere congratulations are extended to the bride and groom.

You and your Bulletin

● Bulletin readers—and we hope that includes most Trail Riders—will be pleased to learn that publication of the magazine has now been placed on a firmly established schedule.

It was discovered, after consulting members by word and by correspondence, that the majority are in favor of February, June and October as the dates of publication. It has, therefore, been decided to adopt this schedule.

The October issue will be devoted largely to events of that year's ride, with a large assortment of illustrations. The February number will be divided approximately 50-50 between the previous camp and the forthcoming rides.

The June issue will give a more concise picture of the forthcoming rides, with illustrations, maps and other advance information for the guidance of prospective applicants.

Bulletins may be supplemented by pamphlets or circulars from time to time where such conditions warrant. Delays in distribution have also been reduced to a minimum under a new arrangement. Each member's name and address now appear on Addressograph plates to correspond with the mailing list. Distribution of the magazines will take place from Montreal where the magazines are printed, thereby saving considerable time.

Members are requested to inform the Secretary-Treasurer of any change of address, mis-spelling of names, or wrong mileage brackets in Bulletin membership lists.

The entire mailing list has been revised with a view to giving prompter and more efficient service. Your co-operation will be much appreciated.

"Soapy" Smith dies at 70; Was Favorite with Riders

The passing of Herbert Alonzo "Soapy" Smith, well known Rocky Mountain guide, packer and former camp cook for the Trail Riders, came as a shock to hundreds of our members, who had come to regard Soapy as an integral and permanent part of the trail ride picture.

Soapy's passing at the age of 70 followed a six months' illness to which he succumbed at his Seebe ranch on the morning of April 7.

Born in Vermont State, Soapy came to Canada in 1904 and before moving to Banff worked at ranches in the Jumping Pound area. Arriving in Banff he was employed as a harness maker for Bill and Jim Brewster and for four years was camp cook for the former on the trail.

For 20 years he served as a guide for Brewster Bros. at the end of which period he acquired a ranch of his own in the Jumping Pound region where he spent his winters. During the summers, however, he returned to Banff to guide pack parties for the Brewsters.

*"Soapy Smith" as Trail Riders
remember him best.*

He went to Seebe in 1922, raising horses and taking out parties on his own. Until two years ago he and Mrs. Smith had been cooks at the Trail Ride camps where his ready smile and pleasing personality made him highly popular with all members.

Surviving are his wife, Eva Alice; one son, Michael, Seebe, and a brother, Fred M. Scott, Kakden, B.C.

Funeral services were held at St. George's Anglican Church, Canon Montgomery officiating. Burial took place in the family plot at Banff Cemetery.

HORSE LAUGHS

Frank: I want to rent a horse.

Claude: How long do you want it?

Frank: Long enough for myself and girl friend.

Marshall: Will you join me in a cup of coffee?

Tillie: Do you think there'd be room for both of us in the cup?

Bill: What's the idea of wearing your sox inside out?

Graham: The doc told me if my feet got too hot to turn the hose on them.

Trail Rider (trying to kid hiker): They tell me you're a chain smoker. Don't you find chains are hard on the teeth?

Trail Hiker: Shucks, no. Trouble is that the chain stores are never open when I want the darn things.

Farmer: Here's the horse, mister. Look him over. Have you ever seen such a coat?

Prospective Buyer: Never mind the coat, it's the pants that impress me.

Theatrical Agent: Sorry, buddy, can't use your horse act. Those acts are a dime a dozen.

Sponsor: But the animal's almost human; he can dance, peel a banana, wheel a baby carriage, and play a piano.

Theatrical Agent: No dice, Mister. Scram! You're wasting my time.

Horse (turning around on way out): You'll be sorry you turned me down. I can juggle too.

First Trail Rider: Are you knitting a sweater?

Second Ditto: No, stupid, this is steel wool and I'm knitting myself a frying pan.

Don: Would you like to eat up the street?

Bob: Nothing doing; I might choke on a manhole cover.

A Bulletin Short-ShortRange Palaver

Dude: "What do you think is the right age to start trail riding?"

Cowboy: "Well pard, in the west we never calculate by age: it's just how you feel. We've had folks on the trail who were just toddling (four years old), and folks who were toddling (three score ten) but they all had the same idea. They were going trail riding and they were right in there pitching. So can't say as how age counts. Of course when it comes to hosses, well, we check their teeth, their chest and their legs, but imagine the cagey position I'd be in if I had to check the dudes over that way. Har! Har!

Tillie Knight up

So we say "Come on out, try the ride." We'll do our best to make the first trip as easy as possible and as you get acclimatized there will be longer rides. You can see from this year's plans that some are going to take a five-day ride while others will be away for 12 days."

Dude: "You know, folks out this way all seem so friendly. Just how does that come about?"

Cowboy: "Guess you'll have to credit that to our pioneers. Ranches and places were far apart in those days. When one family had misfortune the others would come over and help them out. It has been that way ever since and we younger folks are trying to keep up that tradition. We're getting more people out west too. Our visitors come from crowded cities and we just like to make them feel at home and do our best to make their western holiday something they will always remember."

Dude: "Would you like to live in a city or anywhere in the east?"

Cowboy: "I tried it once but nearly choked. Too many people all herding one way or the other, never a smile on their faces and all going lickity-split for goodness knows where. I longed for the mountains, my hoss and the folks out here."

Dude: "What do you do in the winter time?"

Cowboy: "Oh, there's lots to do. We take turns going out to the ranch where horses are wintered and ride range. We bring in the weak horses to the corral and feed them. There are saddles to be repaired, cinches and bridles to be fixed, and in the evenings, we sit about and chin about the trail riding in the summertime and hope our last year's friends will be out this way again."

Dude: "You know I think you fellas have the right idea. Think you could make a cowboy out of me? I'm pretty raw material."

Cowboy: "We'll have a dern good try."

CURTAIN

Hail to you, Mountains of the North!

Hail to you, Mountains of the North,
Wild and free—
Hail to the Gods, that from their rocky throne
Rule the frozen Northland
With a rod of black rain
And ice and driving snow.
Hail to the days, the nights,
The years of icy night,
And secrets kept
Far from the prying eyes of men,
Who would lay low your towering cedars—
Who would profane the age-old silence
By building roads
Where roads should never be.
Hail to you, Mountains of the North!
May the new snow lie softly on your backs;
May the lightning flash a fiery crown
Around your heads,
And the stars a softer coronet;
As you rule throughout Eternity!
